A self-taught painter associated with the Neo-Mexicanidad movement, Ismael Vargas fills canvases with images of undulating textiles and objects from Mexican pop culture such as masks, painted skulls and sombreros. "Echoes of Mexico," a solo exhibit of his work, is on display at Ruiz-Healy Art. A catalog with an essay by author John Phillip Santos is available.

Opens Thursday; runs through Nov. 14, Ruiz-Healy Art, 201-A East Olmos Drive, 210-804-2219, www.ruizhealyart.com
