Chuck Ramirez, who was one of San Antonio's best known artists, started his career as a graphic designer for H-E-B. Now four works by the artist, who was a Southtown fixture, will be exhibited at the grocery company's new South Flores Market, which is set to open Dec. 2.

Ramirez died in November 2010 of injuries sustained in a bicycle accident. He was 48.

Blue Star Contemporary Art Museum is holding a reception and preview of the photographs, part of Ramirez's Brooms Series, 3-5 p.m. Sunday. The museum is located at 116 Blue Star in the Blue Star Arts Complex.

The preview also will feature renderings of the new downtown grocery store.
