

The A-List

OUR PICKS FOR WHAT TO SEE AND DO THIS WEEK

2 Nov 2025 +1 more

1. Art

“Where I’m Calling From: Jennifer Agricola Mojica,” the San Antonio artist’s first solo exhibit at Ruiz-Healy Art, 201 E. Olmos Drive. Info, ruizhealyart.com.

2. Dance

World Ballet Company will present

Reception 6:30–8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Through Jan. 10, Ruiz-Healy Art, 201 E. Olmos Drive. Info, ruizhealyart.com.

its take on “Cinderella,” performed by a cast of 40 dancers from around the world clad in hand-stitched costumes. Marina Kesler choreographed the piece, which runs for two hours, including a 20-minute intermission.

7 p.m. Wednesday, Majestic Theatre, 224 E. Houston St. $40.26–$122, majesticempire.com.

3. Stage

Turnip Ensemble Theater, a new troupe devoted to physical and devised theater, will present its new take on Hans Christian Andersen’s “The Wild Swans.” The performances, staged with a full design team, are part of the development of the work.

Opens Thursday. 8 p.m. Thursday, 7:30 p.m. Friday–Saturday and 2 p.m. Nov. 9, SAY Si, 1310 S. Brazos. $25–$35; pay-what-you-can tickets are available, too, turniptheater.com.

4. Movies

This weekend offers a potential preview of the race for the best actress Oscar. The contenders are Sydney Sweeney, who plays boxer Christy Martin in the sports biopic “Christy,” and Jennifer Lawrence, who stars as a young mother overwhelmed by postpartum depression in director Lynne Ramsey’s “Die My Love.”

By Deborah Martin and Jim Kiest

By Deborah Martin and Jim Kiest

Both movies open Friday in theaters.

5. Event

Ahead of Veterans Day, which is Nov. 11, marching bands, military units and floats will parade down Houston Street to honor veterans and active-duty military members and their families. A free, daylong observation at Hemisfair will include a military flyover, music, food and drinks and resources for

Related Stories

Weekend events

San Antonio Express-News 31 Oct 2025